SPEECH PATHOLOGY A Selective Guide to Materials and Resources

This guide contains a bibliography of titles and electronic resources that will assist students in locating materials for Speech Pathology. This guide is general in its approach to finding materials and resources housed in the F.D Bluford Library and identifying and finding resources that may be on the Internet. It is not meant to be comprehensive. This guide is meant to help students organize their research as well as to give them tips on research strategy. Please come to the Reference Desk and talk with a Reference Librarian for assistance.

Using the Library Catalog

Establishing what resources F.D. Library owns on your subject should be your first priority. To do this, you must search the Library Catalog. The catalog can be searched via the original, text based interface or via the web browser interface. Both versions can be accessed from the library, any campus computer lab or from off campus via remote access. The Library Catalog can be searched by KEYWORD, AUTHOR, TITLE, JOURNAL TITLE, and by SUBJECT. Do a keyword search if you do not know a specific title or a standardized subject heading.

Use the subject SPEECH DISORDERS. These are some subject headings related to speech disorders: Aphasia, Articulation disorders, Audiology, Audiology-instruments, Audiometry, Speech, Auditory masking, Cluttering (Speech pathology), Communication disorders, Communication disorders in adolescence, Communication disorders in children, Communication disorders in infants, Communication disorders in old age, Communicative disorders, Deafness, Forensic audiology, Dichotic listening tests, Group speech therapy, Hearing, Hearing aids, Hearing clinics, Hearing disorders, Hearing disorders in children, Hearing disorders in infants, Hearing impaired children, Hearing impaired infants, Hearing levels, Hyperacusis, Language awareness in children, Language disorders in children, Mutism, Presbycusis, Speech, Speech disorders in adolescence, Speech disorders in Children, Speech perception in newborn infants, Speech therapists, Speech therapy, Speech therapy for children, Speech therapy – Vocational guidance, Stuttering, Tongue thrust, Velopharyngeal insufficiency, Vision disorders in children, Voice disorders, Word deafness in children.

Beginning Your Research

Use encyclopedias, handbooks, or dictionaries. Overviews or definitions of your topics are presented in concise entries or articles. More in depth analysis of your topic can be obtained from the bibliographies at the end of the articles or entries. The table of contents or index should be consulted for your topic.

Bibliographies, Dictionaries, Encyclopedias, and Handbooks

Dictionaries provide brief entries that are quick and helpful sources for the definition or identification of a term, movement, or person. Handbooks and dictionaries can help you throughout your research by providing quick, factual information that you may need to support your ideas.

Encyclopedias are also a good place to start, especially if you are unfamiliar with the topic. Articles in encyclopedias are often written by recognized authorities and tend to provide established facts and ideas about the topic, its history, basic theories, and important persons who have written related articles. Also, most encyclopedia articles close with a bibliography that may help you to establish your literature search.

Dictionaries provide brief entries that are quick and helpful sources for the definition or identification of a term, movement, or person in history. While dictionaries are not as broad as encyclopedias, they are particularly useful for choosing proper terminology.

Note: When using encyclopedias, first consult the index volume, usually the last volume of the set. This will tell you if your topic has an article devoted entirely to it or if it is discussed within an article on a related subject.

Circulating books are located in different sections of the library. Please consult the “location” on the online catalog, then use the directory located at the Reference Desk and by the elevators or ask for assistance.

Government Documents

Government Documents cover a broad range of topics including criminal justice; laws and regulations; congressional hearings; Supreme Court opinions; and economic, demographic and agricultural statistics. You can access the Government Documents Collection several ways: “Library Catalog” using the limiting feature “Where located”; the “Library Information” link to “Departments”, then “Government Documents” link; and the Internet. These items are classified by the Superintendent of Documents Classification Scheme and must be retrieved using that call number. The library's Government Documents Department is located on the lower level of the library.
